

JOURNAL OF CAMELID SCIENCE

www.isocard.org

The Journal of Camelid Science is the official journal of the International Society of Camelid Research and Development (ISOCARD). Camelid Science is a peer-reviewed journal that publishes original and review articles focussing on camelid (camels, alpacas, llamas, vicunas and guanaco) sciences. The areas of interest are anatomy, physiology, nutrition, genetics, production, reproduction, management and diseases

Aims and scope

To disseminate knowledge for sustainable use of camelids for food and other human need. The journal is aimed to foster communication and collaboration among scientists working in research institutes, universities, governmental institutions or nongovernmental organisations, private firms and the pharmaceutical industry.

Editor-in-Chief

Rafat Al Jassim (Australia)

Editorial Board Members

Ahmed Tibary (USA)
Andre-Denis G. Wright (USA)
Bernard Faye (France)
Hamid Agab (Sudan)
Isam Kadim (Oman)
Jane Collins Wheeler (USA)
John B. Gaughan (Australia)
Julian A. (Lulu) Skidmore (UAE)
Manuel Fondevila (Spain)
Mohamed Hammadi (Tunisia)
Murray E. Fowler (USA)
Set Bornstein (Sweden)
Steve D. Johnston (Australia)
Wael A. Khamas (USA)
Warren E. Johnson (USA)

Publisher

Published online: www.isocard.org

Submission

For submission of original papers, reviews, short communications and clinical case reports, please visit ISOCARD website (www.isocard.org).

The instructions to authors are also available on the ISOCARD website.

JOURNAL OF CAMELID SCIENCE

Volume 5 Dec., 2012

Contents

A letter from the editor

Invited reviews

South American camelids – past, present and future
J. C. Wheeler, pp. 1-24

Developing new technology for measuring camelid meat quality
H. J. Swatland, pp. 25-40

Research papers

Analysis of an emerging peri-urban camel production in Isiolo County, Northern Kenya
I. M. Noor, B. O. Bebe and A. Y. Guliye, pp. 41-61

Effect of enzyme treatment and mechanical removal of alpaca (Vicugna pacos) seminal plasma on sperm functional integrity
K. M. Morton, Z. Gibb, T. Leahy and W. M. C. Maxwell, pp. 62-81

Isolation and characterization of lactic acid bacteria from Ititu: Ethiopian traditional fermented camel milk
E. Seifu, A. Abraham, M. Y. Kurtu<sup>1</sup> and Z. Yilma, pp. 82-98

Phenotypic and genotypic characteristics of Trueperella (Arcanobacterium) pyogenes isolated from lung abscesses of one-humped camels (Camelus dromedarius) in Jordan
Y. Al-Tarazi, M. Hijazin, J. Alber, C. Lämmle, A. A. Hassan, M. Timke, M. Kostrzewa, E. Prenger-Berninghoff and M. Zschöck, pp. 99-104

Effect of the prevalence of ectoparasites in the behavioural patterns of wild vicunas (Vicugna vicugna).
Y. Arzamendia, L. E. Neder, G. Marcoppido, F. Ortiz, M. Arce, H. E. Lamas and B. L. Vilá, pp. 105-117

Case report

An unusual dystocia in an Arabian camel with uterine prolapse: a case report
S. Anwar and G. N. Purohit, pp. 118-121

A letter from the editor

Dear members of ISOCARD, colleagues and camelid scientists,

Welcome to the new issue of the Journal of Camelid Science (JCS) and please accept my sincere apology for the delay in releasing this issue. This year has been a very productive for ISOCARD, starting with the successful conference held in Muscat, Oman and ending nicely with the release of volume 5 of the JCS. Also, members of ISOCARD have published in other scientific journals, edited new books, participated and presented in international conferences and been actively communicating with each other. I am sure you will agree that our journal has maintained its high standard and all authors who have published in this journal should be proud of their contributions. All articles were subjected to a rigorous independent peer reviewing process and thorough editing and proof reading. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all members of the editorial board for their help and support and to the ad hoc reviewers and colleagues, whose reviews were greatly appreciated by the authors and me.

I would like to thank all authors, who have chosen the JCS for publication, for their patience, support and understanding.

Thanks again to all of you and I wish you all a happy, successful and prosperous 2013.

Rafat Al Jassim

Editor-in-Chief